

Partners In Leadership Continues to Grow Globally

May 28, 2009 - Temecula, CA – Partners In Leadership is pleased to announce that Afan Consultores Internacionales is its new exclusive authorized representative in Mexico. The companies signed the Authorized Representative Agreement on May 28th, 2009 making the partnership official.

“We are very excited to announce this partnership,” said Tracy Skousen, President of the International Division for Partners In Leadership. “This should allow us to continue to grow in South America and offer our award-winning accountability training services to more people than ever before.”

Partners In Leadership is the premier provider of Accountability Training ® services around the world. Founded over two decades ago, they have thousands of customers and have established a global presence with over 700 clients. They are also the New York Times bestselling authors of “How Did That Happen?” as well as “The Oz Principle,” and “Journey to the Emerald City.”

Afan was founded in 1991 by a group of experienced professionals in the HR and consulting industry. They are based in Mexico, but have offices located throughout Central and South America. They will be a valuable asset to Partners In Leadership as the company continues to grow across South America and the world.

Afan's Co-presidents Octavio Aguilar and Ruben Aguilar have over 17 years of experience as consultants and have collaborated with more than 500 organizations including multiple unions, chambers and professional associations.
