

Russ Horres
Vice President
Research and Development

February 1, 1990

In today's fast paced high technology industry, our ability to compete is dependent on factors rooted deeply in human nature and leadership styles. Partners In Leadership have developed a process for addressing these fundamental forces that goes beyond the typical management seminar or training course. One of the keys to the success of their program is that it deals with the day to day problems of human interaction in your Corporation as compared to esoteric discussion of hypothetical situations. This personalization gives the participants the opportunity for immediate impact and allows the program to be tailored to your individual learning process.

Through a well designed interview process, they are able to quickly develop an unbiased view of the dynamics occurring between and within functional organizations. Partners in Leadership then provide feedback and coaching to enhance leadership in all aspects of your business. What is most amazing about the process is that the Partners In Leadership precepts are simple and timeless but their very nature prevents organizations from recognizing and dealing with the sources of friction that limit success. I highly recommend Partners In Leadership and would especially support their approach where a new corporate strategy is envisioned.

